

decon international as part of the Tilia Group is a global consulting company providing engineering and consulting services for infrastructure projects in the fields of energy supply, renewable energy, environment, water and wastewater management. Our client portfolio consists of public authorities, ministries, utilities, industrial enterprises as well as both national and international financing institutions.

We are looking for an experienced

Senior Project Manager (f/m/d) - Renewable Energy (Photovoltaic)

to join our team in Frankfurt /Main for a permanent position.

YOUR ROLE

- Project Management
- Design construction and construction supervision of solar farms incl. solar resource assessment, layout, electrical design (up to inverter)
- Organizational and contractual setup of PV projects
- Support in the due diligence of solar energy projects
- Supporting tender and procurement procedures
- Technical support for project implementation, supervision, acceptance tests
- Leading international and multicultural project teams
- Quality control and project reporting

YOUR PROFILE

- Minimum 10 years of professional experience in design and execution of photovoltaic projects
- University degree (i.e. B.Sc./ M.Sc./ B.Eng / Dipl.Ing.) in Electrical Engineering / Mechanical Engineering or equivalent
- Several years of professional technical experience in the solar power sector, preferably in the mentioned areas
- English should be fluent in speaking, writing and reading. Any additional language such as German, French or Spanish would be advantageous
- Openness for short-term missions and visits to the countries of projects for acquisition and project activities
- Experience in related professional software such as PV design software, GIS, CAD etc.
- Preferably experience in consulting business, in international development cooperation/projects funded by international donor organizations and financing agencies
- General understanding of the energy sector

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN THIS POSITION?

Please forward your application for consideration to cv@decon.de quoting reference number ENERGY_SPM_REW_202201.

Ms. Angelika Thener is looking forward to receiving your application documents.